

Explore Research Partnership Opportunities at the Select USA Investment Seminar at BIO 2016

Establish or Expand Your U.S. Presence

The SelectUSA Investment Seminar will help connect participants with biotechnology research and partnership opportunities in the United States. SelectUSA and the U.S. Commercial Service will facilitate connections among research institutions, state and local government officials, businesses and universities, as well as regional economic development agencies looking to start or expand operations in the United States.

SelectUSA Investment Seminar

For BIO 2016, the Investment Seminar will have a strong focus on research collaboration and partnership opportunities in the United States. Some of the topics presented will include "The State of Life Science in the U.S.", "Life Sciences Regulatory Framework", "Tech Transfer: Moving Research to Commercialization in the U.S.", and "Creative Partnerships Leveraging Economic Development Organization Support in the Life Sciences Sector".

Speakers include representatives from:

- SelectUSA
- CDC Technology Transfer Office
- Regulatory framework lawyers
- Economic development offices
- Open innovation partnership research institutions

Who Should Participate?

Foreign research institutions, firms, government officials, and investors are highly encouraged to participate in this opportunity to get a better understanding of the biotech research and development partnership models prevalent in the U.S. as well as to discover how to better leverage economic development organization support for your U.S. entry or expansion.
