

Study Georgia, established in 2009, is a consortium of colleges and universities working together to recruit international students to study in the state of Georgia. Study Georgia is composed of 25 members, which includes private institutions, technical colleges, research universities, comprehensive universities; along with state colleges and universities. Study Georgia's goals are to increase the visibility of Georgia's colleges and universities abroad and to connect international students and professionals with quality education and training.

Currently, there are about 19,700 international students attending colleges and universities in the state of Georgia, which is an increase of 11% from the previous academic year. Study Georgia looks to continue to increase this number and welcome students from many different countries. Many of our educational institutions are also looking to establish partnerships with colleges and universities in other countries.

Living in Georgia offers several highlights:

- With a median age of 34.5, Georgia and Atlanta continue to make 'best of' lists for new college graduates and young professionals due to job growth, cultural atmosphere, and low cost of living.
- Each day, more than 75 countries and 150 U.S. cities are a non-stop flight away, thanks to Atlanta's Hartsfield-Jackson International Airport, the world's busiest airport.
- Over, 3,000 international companies (including many Fortune 500 companies) have chosen to locate business operations in Georgia, taking advantage of all this international hub has to offer, including a diverse population of many different ethnic and racial backgrounds.
- The climate in Georgia is a major reason so many people continue to move to the state. All areas of the state have four well-defined seasons. Georgia's moderate climate enables residents to live an outdoor lifestyle and its diverse landscape offers something for everyone, from beaches to mountains.
