

Alessandro Ocera Head of Industrial Components

Alessandro Ocera is a Group Purchasing manager of Finmeccanica Group Services, currently appointed as the Head of the Industrial Components category. His main activities encompass the implementation of added-value initiatives aimed to improve the Group economic performance, the development of performance benchmarks to provide strategic direction for the supply chain process improvement across multiple markets and the cultivation of relationships among the numerous Finmeccanica worldwide operating Companies.

From 2007 to 2008 he worked as Key Account Manager at Eles Semiconductor Equipment, an international leading company active in the development of burn-in and electrical equipments for aerospace & defense applications, with the main responsibility of the sales management of the Industry and Defense Business Unit.

From 2004 to 2007 he developed an international technical experience working as Microwave Engineer for the research institutes Fondazione Bruno Kessler (Trento, Italy) and Imec (Leuven, Belgium) where he also collaborated as R&D Consultant within the framework of the European Network of Excellence Amicom designing Rf Mems and microwave systems for material characterization.

Mr. Ocera got his Master Degree with honors in Electronic Engineering at University of Perugia, where he also earned the license to practice as professional Engineer in Italy and the PhD in Microwaves, in 2004.

In 2011 he further obtained a Master in Business Administration at the Luiss Business School of Rome.

Author of more than 30 international papers, whose main results have been presented in numerous international conferences and journals, he can speak Italian, English and Spanish.