

Connecting U.S. Education to the World

First of its Kind Virtual Student Recruitment Fair of Turkey

This is a unique opportunity for U.S. Schools to reach Turkish students at what is more than just a “virtual fair”.

This Virtual Student Recruitment Fair is organized by Mezun and ISF in collaboration with the U.S. Commercial Service, Education USA and Fulbright, and offers U.S. institutions the option to attend physically or virtually while still meeting with Turkish students and parents who physically attend the program in Istanbul. And, whether you attend in person or virtually, all participating organizations will receive contact information on all students in attendance.

Meet Students

The fair will connect U.S. educational institutions with prospective students in Istanbul. Mezun, one of the show's organizers, is expecting between 500 and 1,000 students to attend their first of its kind fair in Istanbul on December 10th. All participating schools will be assigned a physical booth – whether you attend in person or virtually. Also, each booth will be physically assigned a bilingual assistant.

Why Turkey?

The number of Turkish universities is not sufficient to meet the increasing demand for higher education, thus there is a large Turkish student population studying abroad. Many of the students willing to study abroad place U.S. universities at the top of their list due to the quality of education and good career prospects.
